GENERAL SITUATION

Store shelves at pharmacies across the county will soon be filled with affordable, quick, at-home coronavirus test kits. BinaxNOW, a rapid COVID test made by Abbott Laboratories, was shipped to major pharmaceutical chains, including Walgreens, CVS and Walmart, to be sold over the counter. The tests will be sold in two-count packs for $23.99.

New York Governor Andrew Cuomo announced today that starting Friday, 23 April, New Yorkers 60 years of age and older will be able to walk into any mass vaccination site in New York and receive a COVID-19 vaccine without an appointment.

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio announced a $30 million marketing campaign called "New York City Reawakens" to bring back tourism. He says it will help bring back 400,000 jobs. The campaign aims to boost hotels, restaurants, taxis, arts, entertainment, and more. The goal is to "show the world NYC is back".

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio announced that NYC will open a new vaccination site at the American Museum of Natural History (AMNH) in Manhattan on Friday, April 23. The new vaccination site will operate from 8 AM to 6 PM, Friday through Tuesday each week, offering approximately 1,000 shots per day.

New Jersey Governor Phil Murphy announced that the Atlantic City megasite will be holding special walk-up hours on Thursday, 22 April, between 1-3 p.m. and no appointment is necessary.

Connecticut Governor Ned Lamont announced he is planning to phase out many COVID-19 restrictions affecting businesses next month while keeping the mandatory indoor mask-wearing rules in place, this week. The announcement came as the state surpassed 8,000 COVID-associated deaths, but Connecticut currently ranks second in the nation for most vaccines administered per capita. Here is what you need to know about the changes effective 1 May and 19 May. In addition, the Connecticut Department of Public Health will issue recommendations for indoor and other large outdoor events, such as concerts, as well as clarify where masking will continue after May 19, according to Gov. Lamont.
