GENERAL SITUATION

President Biden issued a travel ban restricting travel from South Africa, as well as Brazil, UK, Ireland and 26 other European countries as variants of the virus spread around the world.

The European Union could approve the AstraZeneca shot this Friday, according to German health ministry spokesman Hanno Kautz. The vaccine has been under review by the European Medicines Agency since January 12.

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio said today that over 600,000 vaccines have been administered since the beginning of the effort, though he stressed the city “urgently” needs more supply, and flexibility to vaccinate. As of now, the city has on hand just over 19,000 first doses remaining, with just over 107,000 expected in resupply this week. The city can stay on track for second doses, he said, and remains at capacity to vaccinate at 500,000 per week. Appointments continue to be rescheduled. The Javits Center, Jones Beach, State Fair Expo Center, SUNY Albany, Westchester County Center, SUNY Stony Brook University, Aqueduct Racetrack, SUNY Binghampton, SUNY at Buffalo South Campus and Rochester Dome Arena are no longer taking appointments as the state is starting week six of its vaccination process. However, SUNY Potsdam Field House and Plattsburgh International Airport still have appointments available.

New Jersey Governor Phil Murphy said that in NJ a vaccine phone line went up at 8 a.m. this morning with 250 agents to answer calls. The number to call is 855-568-0545. Meantime, many people started to get their second dose of the Moderna vaccine over the weekend.

Washington, D.C., Mayor Muriel Bowser announced senior citizens are now able to register to get their vaccine. D.C. and Maryland each have at least four phases (1A, 1B, 2, and 3) with various groups of recipients included in each phase. Virginia has five phases: 1A, 1B, 1C, 2, and 3. Click here to read more about the phases.

Washington D.C. Mayor Muriel Bowser announced today that public school teachers in D.C. can begin receiving COVID-19 vaccinations starting this week. A total of 3,900 appointments have been made available for DCPS teachers and 70% of those appointments have already been filled.

Bowser emphasized the importance of reopening both public schools and charter schools. The District is currently in Phase 1B – Tier 2, which includes teachers, essential government workers, and other essential workers.
